Where will you go on your next vacation? Disneyland? Sea World? Outer space? Tourists are now paying big bucks to travel into space with astronauts. The first space tourist was Dennis Tito, an American businessman. In 2001, he paid about $20 million to ride on a Russian rocket to the International Space Station (ISS). The Space Station circles 220 miles above Earth. Tito stayed on the station for a week hanging out with astronauts and eating space food.

CODE 904

The latest space tourist was Anousheh Ansari, an Iranian-born woman from the United States who went to the Space Station in mid-September 2006.

How safe is space travel? Apart from the risk of crashing, space tourists have some special things to worry about. Earth's atmosphere protects us from dangerous radiation from the sun. Space travellers are exposed to more of the sun's rays. But for tourists spending only a few days or weeks in space, the radiation probably isn't harmful.

A bigger problem might be space sickness. Without Earth's gravity to hold them down, visitors to the Space Station float around inside the craft. It may look like fun on TV, but it can make first-time space travellers dizzy and sick. Luckily, the sickness usually wears off quickly. Then space tourists can enjoy their trip and the amazing view of Earth.

Question 25: The first space tourist's nationality is _____.

- A. American B. Russian C. unknown D. Iranian

Question 26: Who is the latest space tourist?

- A. an American businessman B. a Russian person
C. an Iranian - born man D. an Iranian-born woman

Question 27: We can infer from the passage that space travellers are exposed to more radiation because _____

- A. Their spacesuits are too thin to protect them.
B. They stay in space for such a long time.
C. They lack protection provided by Earth's atmosphere.
D. They float around inside the craft and have space sickness.

Question 28: What does the word "them" in the last paragraph refer to?

- A. astronauts B. visitors C. sun rays D. businessmen
